28 - 29 AUGUST 2000

The sixth New Zealand Formal Program Development Colloquium will be held at University of Canterbury, Christchurch on the 28th and 29th of August 2000.

The New Zealand Formal Program Development Colloquium was established to encourage and promote work in New Zealand in the areas of formal methods , programming foundations and formal software engineering . Previous meetings have been organised at the University of Waikato, Massey's Palmerston North campus, Victoria University of Wellington, the Australian National University (as part of Formal Methods Pacific), and Massey's Albany Campus.

The purpose of this workshop is to bring together all those who are interested in the general area of formal methods. Papers on all aspects of formal methods are invited. The papers will be reviewed primarily for relevance rather than deep technical achievement. Hence the forum will also accept relevant work in progress reports. Participation from industry is especially welcome.
